

Documenting The Pandemic

By: Trinady Caponero

Historical Significance

I think something that might be missed is how we can't even go to school. It's something that we all need and we take for granted.

Continuity And Change

The parks are something I didn't think about when this was all starting so I didn't exactly think it would change.

Historical Perspective

I think this is telling the story of all the essential workers, they are all working hard during this time to make sure we have everything we need. I believe that we give more recognition to some workers than others. They are all putting their health at risk during this difficult time.

Cause And Consequence

I think more people are going on hikes or walks to stay healthy and pass time. It's something I've definitely noticed and gone on walks myself.
